

Handler Suspected

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A Kansas livestock handler charged in the murders of three boys and a suspect in the slayings of at least 10 other youths will be questioned by Indiana State Police about the 1970 murder of an Indianapolis youth, Michael Bayles.

State Police Sgt. Chester Inlow said Tuesday he plans to question William "Choo-Choo" Guatney, 57, Neosho, Kan., about where he was on Oct. 3, 1970, the day the 10-year-old Bayles was abducted as he was delivering the Indianapolis Star along his newspaper route.

Bayles was sexually molested and stabbed to death, then his body was dumped along a country road near Knightstown in Henry County.

Guatney, who is known to have traveled throughout the Midwest working as a livestock handler at state and county fairs for more than 20 years, is a suspect in up to 12 murders of young boys between January 1972 and May 1979, Inlow said.
